

The Ladder

Steps make progress countable and the next move small. A good ladder never asks anyone to jump.

1 Your example

2 MIN

What ascent are you designing?

Offers by price and trust, a skill from beginner to teacher, stranger to advocate.

2 The four rungs

BOTTOM TO TOP

Rung 1: name + price/ask + what it proves to the climber

Is the step up small enough to feel like continuation?

Rung 2: name + price/ask + what it proves to the climber

Is the step up small enough to feel like continuation?

Rung 3: name + price/ask + what it proves to the climber

Is the step up small enough to feel like continuation?

Rung 4: name + price/ask + what it proves to the climber

Is the step up small enough to feel like continuation?

3 The entry and the stall

THE DIAGNOSIS

Where do most people enter the ladder, and what convinces them?

Where do climbers stall, and what reason to climb is missing?

The stall is your next offer or your next belief-shift.

The ladder rule, in one line

e.g. nobody jumps, everybody climbs.
